HEN SEA TRADERS, in great sailing vessels, were plying the seven seas bringing an interchange of merchandise throughout the world, a new form of trade was arising in America, in England, and in France. Itinerant merchants or traveling tinhermen, as they were called, rambled through the rural sections of these countries in a horse-drawn store on wheels, supplying the farmers and isolated communities with everything from a collar button to a new dishpan. This is but one of the many strange forms which the market place, as an institution, has assumed in the course of the human story.

While you live and breathe you will need things. You may think that you do not need anything, but an advantageous purchase now will save you money in the future. Many buys are offered every day in the Want Ad Section of this paper—but you will never know about them unless you read the Want Ads. Make Want Ads a habit by remembering that "you haven't finished reading your newspaper till you read the Want Ads." Read them for their wealth of curious information, read them for their wealth of curious information, read them "for profit and for pleasure."
